FREE ARTS, CULTURE & ENTERTAINMENT

FREE ARTS, CULTURE & ENTERTAINMENT

Britannia Shipyards National Historic Site features turn-of-the-century cannery residences, a shipyard, boardwalk, marsh, and more. From there, the London Heritage Farm is just a short distance away. Spend some time exploring this four-acre historic site and heritage garden that aims to recreate life in Steveston from 1880 to 1930.

Stop by the Steveston Museum and Visitor Centre as well, where you can explore the Japanese Fishermen's Benevolent Society Building and learn about Steveston's Japanese Canadian (Nikkei) community. Just down the street is the Steveston Interurban Tram on Moncton Street. Tramcar 1220 is now the largest artifact in the Richmond Museum's collection, and is one of the only remaining interurban trams once operated by the BC Electric Railway Company.

FREE OUTDOOR ACTIVITIES

The Richmond Nature Park is the perfect refuge for nature lovers. 200 acres (81 hectares) of raised peat bog habitat await, along with 5 kilometers (3 miles) of walking trails through the bog, forest, and pond habitats. Check out the Nature House while you're there—an interpretive centre featuring displays about the park, games, activity kits, and even an active beehive.

If you're with your kids, bring them to the Terra Nova Adventure Play Environment. This dynamic, million-dollar playground features innovative structures designed to reconnect kids with nature. In addition to striking natural elements, the park features a seasonal meadow maze, a hillside slide, tandem ziplines, an aerial rope walkway, and much more. It was awarded a design citation from the Canadian Society of Landscape Architects in 2015.
