

Ravens Homework Club

Supported by Vancity, community donors, and volunteers, the Ravens Homework Club is a program that supports Aboriginal children and youth with tutoring and mentorship activities.

The Club works with kids after school and provides them with opportunities to have fun and receive support to make learning fun, while developing positive relationships with others.

Ravens Homework Club

The Ravens Homework Club is a program that supports Aboriginal children and youth with tutoring and mentorship activities. We work with youth after school and provide them with a chance to have some fun, help with homework and an opportunity to develop positive relationships. We have a number of older youth and adults who volunteer as tutors and mentors in the program. Volunteers receive training to prepare them to work with the kids and organize fun things to do.

At the end of the day we want children and youth to be positively engaged, develop positive relationships and have a chance to see how learning can be fun. Funding for this program and activities are provided through Vancity, the Province of British Columbia, the United Way of the Lower mainland, and private donors and sponsors.
